

American Idol Rejects

Summary: American Idol rejects perform terrible pop hits for the cabin.

Number of staff required: 3

Props/Materials/Costumes:

Three people, two dressed up like singers, one as announcer, microphone

Prep done:

Dress up

Execution:

The first counselor comes in dressed as a TV host announcer and states through the microphone that they will have two performances from guest singers.

The singers are quite awful when performing, and usually do painfully botched versions of otherwise irritating pop songs. For this, it really depends on what you are familiar with and what is popular right then. Chances are, it will likely go over best if the campers are familiar with the song. Again, the worse your version of it is, the funnier it will be.
